

ADDING BEAUTY TO THE BRIDAL FINERY

.....SUPRITI BATRA

Some people keep yearning to break away from the mundane while others have the courage to listen to their heart and go with it. Having worked in the corporate world for as long as she could remember, Supriti Batra today quells her creative thirst by rendering her brush strokes to the bridals, fashion shows, photo shoots and media shoots. Makeup, which has forever intrigued her with its play of colours, contours and the ability to turn anybody into a diva got the better of Supriti when after years of being a part of corporate rat-race she decided to let go of her pens and took to brushes. She adds, "This change has come as a result of a desire to do something of my own and that is when I decided to turn my passion into my profession." In a meager time of 2 years, Supriti has already worked with the likes of Satya Paul and designer duo Meera and Rohit, apart from handling portfolio shoots for models. Trained under noted makeup artist Vidya Tikari, Marlena in United States and Julia in Switzerland, Supriti honed her skills only to do what she could do best.

Driven by her passion to make brides beautiful, Supriti believes in rendering a different look to every bride depending upon her personal style and liking because each bride is different. For the approaching wedding season, Supriti suggests using bright colours like fuchsia, orange and red to complement the flawless skin tone. As for eye makeup, she suggests using a lot of gold and shimmer and lining the eyes properly to let them do most of the talking. She suggests, "On wedding day, eyes look their best when they are traditionally done. Plus, experimental brides also opt for a rendition of smokey eyes."
